

AUSTRALIAN SECURITIES

As an Australian Credit license holder, Australian Securities takes its responsible lending obligations under the National Consumer Credit Protection Act 2009 very seriously.

Australian Securities employs compliant and ethical lending practices to validate our loan suits your purpose and objective.

We value all forms of feedback as an opportunity to improve our financial services.

We therefore take any complaint about our financial services very seriously. If one should arise, we will always investigate to find a resolution and if necessary review our own lending practices.

How to make a complaint.

If as a client of Australian Securities, you feel you have been disadvantaged or believe you have grounds for a complaint please contact us.

Australian Securities Internal Dispute Resolutions (IDR) process will review the complaint in detail and if necessary you may be requested to provide further information.

Your initial complaint should be made to the lending manager or the individual responsible for managing your loan account by calling Australian Securities on:- +613 9139 6600 or 1300 275 275 or lodge a Complaint form via our contacts page

Internal Dispute Resolution

If the complaint cannot be settled at first contact, we recommend you follow up with a written complaint detailing your grievances and send to :-
