

A brokerage payment system that puts you, back in control.

The 'Finance Fee Facility' is a free service

We at Australian Securities believe the Royal Commission into the banking sector, has created new and exciting opportunities for brokers to grow their business, away from banks, by building more transparent customer relationships.

Australian Securities have the perfect facility to achieve this. They have a long history, of partnering with brokers since 1925, with a brokerage payment system that has been in operation for decades. The Australian Securities 'Finance Fee Facility', is superior to any commission based structure and provides greater control with fee payments while building better broker/client relationships.

When you introduce a client to Australian Securities, we will manage your clients lending requirements, pay your fees and your client will remain just that - 'your client'. Eligibility to the 'Finance Fee Facility' is automatic on approved loan applications.

It is a free, transparent service for you and your client. You simply set the remuneration for the service you provide up front, with client approval. Payments are flexible and more affordable for the client. You decide on the initial fee or a trail fee or both an initial fee and ongoing trail fees.

Australian Securities collects the fees for you, from the loan advance or the on-going interest payments and credits them monthly to your bank account. This arrangement is popular with brokers and their clients, as it builds trust and customer loyalty, providing a level of transparency for clients, concerned about hidden commissions.

Australian Securities does not have claw-backs and if the applicant elects to exit the loan prior to the end of the term, broker trail payments are calculated up until the repayment date when the debt is paid out under the terms of the agreement. Agreements between the broker and their client cannot be changed by Australian Securities, providing greater certainty for both borrower and broker. Brokers also have access to the AS secure on-line portal service which provides on-line payment statements of individual client loans and fee disbursements. Broker are also provided monthly email notifications of total fee distributions for their clients each month. ASL does not charge a fee for EFT transfers and absorbs the bank charges while providing this free service.
